Why join?

FTI is the only member-based research and education institute directly influencing the acceleration of building facade technology as it relates to the future of resilience and sustainability in the built environment. We offer our members a variety of educational opportunities that include both live and virtual programming.

Your membership includes:

- Access to our extensive, searchable digital library of papers and articles
- Subscription to the SKINS newsletter
- Special pricing to attend FTI events, like the World Congress and regional forums
- Participation in a mentoring program with the FTI College of Fellows

Check out our website, www.facadetectonics.org for more information on the Institute. To become a member, go to the link: <http://www.facadetectonics.org/membership> for a free student membership.

If you are having trouble registering, please contact Raditia Lasry (rlasry@facadetectonics.org).
